CLERK OF COURT
ELIZABETH A. GARCIA, ESQ.

December 22, 2023

Dear Colleagues,

On behalf of the Supreme Court, I want to welcome you to the 31st annual New Mexico Children's Law Institute (CLI). This year's theme is "Illuminated by Hope: Forging a Path to Empathy, Equity, & Accountability." Thank you for gathering together to support the work of stakeholders committed to creating a of care that embraces these values. This year, leaders from every sector of our child welfare and juvenile justice community have collaborated to create an innovative program. Whether this is your first CLI or you have attend the last three decades, I am confident you will find this year's institute to be an inspiring pathway toward a bright future.

Over the last year, you have been committed to strengthening New Mexico's child welfare and juvenile justice initiatives. This collaboration is reflected in the plenary sessions and workshops scheduled this year. The diverse topics provide areas of interest to legal, child welfare, and juvenile justice professionals and advocates, educators, parents, and youth. Topics for this year's CLI include the following: improving resource access to families; juvenile parole reform and legal updates; kinship guardianship; improving case reviews; equity and inclusion for LGBTQIA2S+ Youth; the federal Indian Child Welfare Act (ICWA) and Indian Child Welfare Act (IFPA) cases; and much more.

I am happy to report that the Children's Court Improvement Commission (CCIC) and the Family Representation Commission (FRC), which serve as advisory bodies to the New Mexico Supreme Court, continue to ensure that New Mexico children and families have access to quality legal representation and other supports and services necessary to improve outcomes and permanency.

As we look to the future, we must continue the work to remove the barriers to system-wide change. Fortunately, the CLI brings us together and inspires new ways of thinking and innovative approaches to improve outcomes for the most vulnerable members of our communities.

The work you do to serve New Mexico's children and families truly makes a difference, and, on behalf my colleagues, we extend our deepest appreciation and gratitude.

Sincerely yours,

C. Shannon Bacon
Chief Justice

IN MEMORIAM

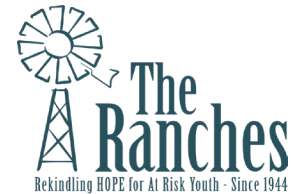

Wishing a fond farewell and bon voyage to our dear colleague and friend, F. Chester Miller, who passed away on November 14th, 2023. Chester was a dedicated contract attorney in San Juan County for many, many years, who brought compassion, intelligence, and a playful sense of humor to everything he did. In classic Chester-form, his obituary suggests that we honor his life by “eating a bowl of ice cream and listening to “Wake Up” by Arcade Fire, a song he once told his daughter made him grateful to be alive.” Chester is already missed.
